

BETSY HAMILTON.

SKETCH OF LIFE IN THE BACK-WOODS.

Old Miss Green and Old Miss Freshours the Nettie-botted Pratlers, Meet at Betsy's Mill's House and Tell All They Know About the Singletons-Jestously, Etc.

They're a big family of the Singletons. They moved here to the mountings on account of the ole 'oman's been sickly. They are monstrous nice good folks; they lost a power, like every body else, by the war, and they don't quitys as high as they muster, but they are proud and alders puts the best foot foremost and holds them above trash, and for that reason some folks is jealous of 'em and don't want to see 'em prosper.

They ride in a buggy and dresses nice, and the two oldest gals, Nancy and Annastie—they call her Nettie—has to the big bug school away of yander somethin', and they've got a plenty of looks, learnin', and they dress fine and pretty when they go anywhere, and that makes some of the gals in this settlement fairly hate 'em. But they dress nice and clean as home too. "Why," says old Miss Freshours, "Nancy and Nettie Singleton and the ole 'omen too, all sets up that at home every day, same as it was Sunday. In the weakly day mind you, w'en they haven't got no company neither, and wears a collar, a white collar, Monday same Sunday." They say every time old Miss Green sees 'em pass her house in a buggy she fairy flies her so mad, that the buggy that hunkers her so much.

Her old Miss Freshours, jesting has talked some of the younger gals to hysterics in the open 'em and letch' around. Old Miss Green's been over there at quarety makin' right in a gang of women folks, says she: "The Singletons and Blackness, it folks I don't waste my time ramblin' after any of them, but I do after the old 'omen, and after her after me to doctor 'em, and old 'em 'em alone, they thinks they are made out gold, and that they're better than folks; that's the reason I was glad when old man Singleton's cotton got burnt, and blow his house down. I signed him over to the Good Lord and elecuted my hands. I was so glad."

"Now," says I, "they are on a level with tocher folks, and right then I'd been glad to see old Miss Haskins drop dead over the wash tub."

Nancy Singleton, she happened to go to Tammy to see some of her kinney, and them old women had it singin' around that she married while she was gone, and her old man quit her, and now they are trying to say she is a gwinne to marry again, and to a 'oller' last I know in reason she hasn't never spoke to me, I think they had better take to the court house.

Todder day I was monstrous tired; had been a happen' buddy pack cotton in the five acre field toter side of the truck path, and I dropped in the back entry and went to sleep. I awoke in the morning to the trouble and did want to sleep. You might have tased on a bedrock off bed and all, and I wouldn't have knew it. That hoist no sleep 'em so sound and sweet as when a body is the truck path, but I did, and I went to sleep. To them old bitches that's mornin' is ingeniously easy, and if they are well and hearty, haunt nothing to nender 'em from droppin' off to sleep time they strike the bed. I sleep most strung out and it rested me, and when I rig up on my bed to look at 'em when they are a-hangin' half-asleep, "catch some eyes" cut here in the entry," says naw, "it's easier."

Furphy Tammy, she dragged the chores after her and "lowed:

"I know in reason we's has done worse out though she's earther a lot of chases and a bough she's not as bad as I do."

Wichita had a plenty of chores in our time says a new, "that they've all been stoned." "Then that has mose less," says old Miss Green. "And the mighty shuit be stoned if low," says old Miss Freshours, thinkin' she's got a new pair of chores. "I reckon I am one of the mighty shuit," says Furphy, as she took a seat on the steps.

"What do it all mean?" thinks I to myself. "As I was goin' on to say," says old Miss Freshours, "I hearn it, never heard it before. The old 'omen had a plenty of chores and I stood and tater down her bottom. "Such that no shock bottom cheer out the Kingdom Fluridly Tammy," says naw, "I wonder what old Miss Green had hearn. I knowest it wasn't nothing good or she wouldn't be soofer to tell. "I have a good every time anybody talks about her," says Furphy, "she's never been a-tellin'."

"It was Sister Green," says old Miss Freshours, "it say it Nancy or that stuck up Netty?" "I dismember," says she, "I don't know from tother, no how, for I never turnt out to look at 'em when they are a-sittin' by in that top buggy; it would do 'em too much good."

They say old Miss Singleton is a takin' of it monstrous hard, but she is so proud she is tryin' to hide it, but she is. The top knotkins come to see her, and she's a-sittin' in a chair, and she's a-sittin' in a chair, and she's a-sittin' in a chair. What a pitiful sight she was! I don't know as I had ever told it, "she went on, and I don't know as I had ever told the news, and that's the talk. Passin' you snuff box dust in it. Sister Green, "I've got a new pair of chores," says Furphy, "I am one of the mighty shuit," says Furphy, as she took a seat on the steps.

"What do it all mean?" thinks I to myself. "As I was goin' on to say," says old Miss Freshours, "I hearn it, never heard it before. The old 'omen had a plenty of chores and I stood and tater down her bottom. "Such that no shock bottom cheer out the Kingdom Fluridly Tammy," says naw, "I wonder what old Miss Green had hearn. I knowest it wasn't nothing good or she wouldn't be soofer to tell. "I have a good every time anybody talks about her," says Furphy, "she's never been a-tellin'."

"It's the talk," says she, spittin' spay over the steps, that Nancy Singleton is a game to marry and triflin' Monk Simpson. "I know they'll call Monk, because he favors a monkey."

"Now I know well and good that those Singletons won't notice nary ons of them. Singletons to see they live. I know they'll call Monk, because he favors a monkey, and I'll tell you what I hear rockie aster harvest."

The wheat was mighty sorry, it was all a moving a-hun' on the other side the creek. I was out a-hun' on my monkey. They'd been a usin' it that flat over that fern old Kelly's blanching plant that in that pond of old Johnson's. When the wheat was out a-hun' on the drawin' time of that freshet, Furphy you know has done moved away on to Massipay and they say she druv her trucks to a poor market when she took that possum mouth Bob Haskins' house, and the old Singletons took a walk about the place. "I know old Miss Green," "Pride goes before a fall," of Falco is po' she deservs it, and I'm glad of it. I'm alers glad for every look of them when erer he to strike; but laws, old Miss Haskins' right now would starve rather not have that at her nose of her own honest, and her Cereals were rather due as to when to dress even in my gal. But I tells my gal all of 'em can be carrying that's a mind to, but they shant."

Miss Googen had sat there and hadn't opened her mouth. She come in the shadowin' whar I was a-sittin' on the back porch, and she was the wrist of it all. I got her a waistin' for old Miss Freshours to come to the pint, for I knew it wasn't no, no how. The upshot of it all is this. Sit it down to the ban and its jealousy—notthin' but jealousy."

The news of sickness and of death is a sorrowful thing to us all.

When bad the teeth or bad the health,

Both soul and body lose their tone,

The SOZODON'TS sought into play,

And swoops those dire delects away.

Rejoices Because "His Settlement" School House is Finished.

Our country school house is finished, and we are proud. The teacher has been installed and the children are gathering in. That school house may be historic in time to come, for some one or more of the scholars may wake up to the world about something. There is a heap to learn yet. The mysteries are not all resolved. That school house may be the alma mater of some wonderful genius, and then who who have stock in it will be proud. It is no leg cabin—no sardine—but a good, large, stylish academy. We are all poor in money, though rich in children, and so we forged around for help and we got it. There is nothing like strategy about doing these things. We strained ourselves first, and then we tarred on the town and got a little here and a little there, and it counted up. I used to live in a town and the country forged on me and so I am just playing for even. Judge Underwood used to say that he had stock in all the country churches and country schools from Tugalo river to the Tallapoosa. Well, it is broad cast upon the waters of reckon, and it will return to us after many days. I don't know how many, but after many days, I didn't mind beggin' for a church or a school house. When we found we could make up the money we set down and wrote to General Brown and General Grant and said about giving them a portion of the proceeds, and that makes some of the gals in this settlement fairly hate 'em. But they dress nice and clean as home too. "Why," says old Miss Freshours, "Nancy and Nettie Singleton and the ole 'omen too, all sets up that at home every day, same as it was Sunday. The Constitution:

Published Daily and Weekly.

ATLANTA: GEORGIA.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION is published every day, except Monday, and is delivered by carriers in the city, or mailed postage free at $1 per month, $20 for three months, or $10 a year.

THE CONSTITUTION is for sale on all trains leading out of Atlanta, as news stands in the principal southern cities.

ADVERTISING RATES depend on location in the paper, and will be furnished on application.

THE CONSTITUTION,

Atlanta, Georgia.

ATLANTA, SEPTEMBER 28, 1884.

ONLY TWO DAYS LEFT

We have been publishing THE CONSTITUTION for many a year. We have never offered an advertising medium to our patrons that

WOULD BEAR ANY COMPARISON to the Trade issue that will be issued on October 1.

This paper will go into every neighborhood in Georgia and by the thousand into the adjoining states. It will absolutely pervade the territory tributary to Atlanta.

Only two days are left in which to secure space in this special edition. Copy should be sent in at once so that it can get proper classification and display.

No merchant or manufacturer should fail to have a place in this paper.

It has already progressed far enough to enable us to assure the public that the paper

WILL BE THE LARGEST

ever printed in America. It will be an honor to Georgia and to the south, and will make every Georgian proud of the establishment that can turn out such a paper.

SEND IN YOUR COPY AT ONCE, and do not fail to reserve space.

Extra copies of the paper will be for sale in wipers at the counting rooms of the Conservative 5 cents each. No better way to show the resources of the south can be found than to send cut copies of this paper.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states at 1 a. m.; fair weather, easterly winds, stationary temperature.

The whole English press concur in urging upon the government its immediate attention to the state of the navy. The question is attracting unusual attention and discussion. The foreign press consider that England has nothing to fear while she continues to hold the coaling stations in all parts of the world. It is evident from the bad condition of the English navy that some republican officials must have spirited themselves into the English service.

Mr. BLAINE visited Mrs. Garfield yesterday, and later in the day made a speech in which he apostrophized the spirit of abolitionism, which had its greatest strength in the western reserve. He dwelt upon protection to American labor as being the great issue of the present campaign.

ACTION Postmaster General Hutton has issued an order that on and after October 1, 1884, all postoffices of the first class and their stations, or branch offices, shall be kept open to the public for the issue and payment of money orders, and for the receipt of matter intended for registration, and the delivery of registered matter, until 6 o'clock p. m., every day, except Sundays and legal holidays.

The republican circus first opened in Philadelphia. It is now playing in Ohio. The chief attraction is, of course, the majestic white elephant, whitewashed and garnished by Editors Moses P. Hand, Whitelaw Reed and C. Emory Smith. Though the job was done by skillful hands, the original blackness was so dense that all efforts to completely hide it were futile. It is now exposed in several large spots, chief among which are the Mulligan letters, the marriage date, the speakership record, the piano steels, and others of equally large dimensions.

The defeat of Grover Cleveland was the most dismal service that can now be rendered to the nation. The election of Grover Cleveland would be the greatest injury that the democracy could now suffer. Fortunately it is now probable that the service will be efficiently rendered and the injury prevented.

In other words, because Governor Cleveland is not a dupe, we must have Blaine for president. The New York World, the Nashville American, the Atlanta Constitution and the Masonic messenger should be warned in time. But a little ago the sun was their inspiration and their god. They worshipped it. They should beware less the same train of confused reasoning which has carried it over to Butler does not give election day carry them over to Blaine. They are talking now just as the sun talked three or four months ago.

The Courier-Journal has a troubled mind. We do not remember the time to which our excited contemporary refers. We have no recollection of worshipping Editor Dana's Sun, and the statement of the Courier-Journal would be calculated to puzzle us did we not bear in mind the fact that our contemporary is in the habit of speaking in parables, to say nothing of tropes and figures.

For one thing Mexico has maintained a penitentiary against their fellow workmen of the south. In a recent speech he said, "They are starting cotton factories down there, and iron works, and they work the laborers for half the price you get, and I am afraid that you will be compelled to pay him in paying off the debts you owe him."

The Widows Butler is trying to prejudice north-countrymen against their fellow workmen of the south. In a recent speech he said, "They are starting cotton factories down there, and iron works, and they work the laborers for half the price you get, and I am afraid that you will be compelled to pay him in paying off the debts you owe him."

The statement is made that those of the Washington correspondents are for Brother Blaine. That is life in Washington will deteriorate body except your average congressman.

Such words as "united" and "united," are to be excluded from the Nashville World. This is a good idea.

The CONSTITUTION once attempted to sit down on the word "poised," but the attempt was unsuccessful. Our reporters were too well posted to tamely submit.

The public will not be surprised to learn that Brother Stephen Elkins has a record as glittering as that of Mr. Blaine.

The Elaine organs are making a good deal of fun of the appeal of the democratic committee to the people for money. To a gang that has had not only the proceeds of official corruption, but the United States treasury itself, such an appeal amidst such calamities can be nothing but a good thing for us, but it is rough on Canada.

The fact that a newspaper man in England has eloped with the wife of a nobleman shows how the ladies feel toward our gifted professor. We feel that there is still a chance for Editor Watterston to become president.

We are glad to learn that Editor Dana's fine game chicken has been named for Grover Cleveland.

In the first place the Sun is a good newspaper. It has gone wrong, but it is a good newspaper. In the second place its editors write good English. Good English is plain, simple, strong English, without gush or affectation. In the third place, the Sun perceives clearly that the free trade issue, over which Editor Watterston is making such a fuss, has no more to do with the present campaign than the color of the eyes of the men in the moon.

Now we do not worship the Sun. Its opposition to the democratic candidate is inexplicable on reasonable grounds, and its support of such an ardent demagogue as Butler is a fact to be deplored; but in spite of these things it is a good newspaper. After the election of Cleveland, and when the sun has repented of its present foolish course, it will be called heretic.

The democrats are not napping in the sun, but as long as the political tide renders New York and Indiana surely democratic—altogether regardless of the October result in Ohio—we see no need of entering the field of speculation and dispute. New York, Indiana and the south are democratic, and they are altogether sufficient. If New Hampshire, New Jersey, Connecticut and some of the western states besides Indiana, or Pennsylvania come in to swell the victory and seal the fate of the party of extravagance and corruption, the rejoicing will be the greater, but whether they do or not Cleveland and Hendricks will be elected.

Heretofore the trips of nominees have either been short, or else some mission or excuse has been presented. General Scott set out to select the site of a home for disabled veterans. Mr. Blaine presents no excuse; he boldly and shamelessly goes forth to the rear end of a car in his own behalf up almost to the day of election. He has become a political tramp, while his opponent remains at home attending in a dignified way to the duties that come to hand.

There is no parallel in Mr. Blaine's tour and the speeches that Garfield or Greeley made, or that Mr. Gladstone is making in England; for the republican nominees take great care not to discuss public questions; he does not go forth to sow good seed; he simply goes to exhibit himself. His speeches are brief and rapid. It is hippodroming of the most degrading kind, and all sensible men will be apt to be disgusted with such indecentions.

Such a tour is necessarily a confession of weakness, a step of desperation; for if the canvass party did not demand such a wide departure from custom, Mr. Blaine would never adopt it. No one understands better than he does the proprieties of public life, but he is plainly in such a strait that decorum is forgotten in the pursuit of votes. Votes fortunately cannot be changed at this stage of the canvass by glimpses of a candidate while the train halts at a station.

THE BLAINE HIPPODROME.

Some of our excellent democratic contemporaries are inclined to envelop themselves in a cloud of gloom because Brother Blaine has been rubbed down with a coat of Willy Wally Phelps's celebrated hard oil and placed on the road for the delectation of the vultures.

We do not incline to sympathize with such a feeling, and if any of our contemporaries are disposed to enter the cave of gloom on account of Brother Blaine's hippodrome tour in the west cannot hope to be accompanied by The CONSTITUTION.

Indeed, we regard the engagement of the Blaine hippodrome tour in the west as a substantial democratic victory. It is one of the signs of republican defeat, a sign that the leaders of that corrupt organization understand the situation and appreciate the desperate straits to which they are reduced.

The business methods of the Chinese are peculiar. They have no bankruptcy laws for the protection of creditors in China, and when a man finds himself very much imposed upon by a debt he generally redresses his wrongs in his own way. Against the bankrupt the law is very severe. A failure of $1,000 to $5,000 entails bankruptcy, and from $5,000 upward subjects the offender to death by decapitation. A son considers himself bound to pay his father's debts. The Chinese merchants are very proud of their credit. This was illustrated by the failure of a Chinese firm in Canton. The indeftedness to foreign houses was very heavy, and when the fact became known one Honkong called upon half a dozen wealthy men to join with him in paying off the debts. The Chinese said that "Chinese credit must remain unshaken." Honkong headed the list with $100,000. This may be sacred at semi-heretical, but it is on the right line and would be honorable to any civilization.

MISS LEWIS, the "Lucia Zarate of Naples," is evidently improving sailors.

John B. Gough has generally voted the republican ticket in a presidential year, but now he is booked for St. John.

ROBERT LINCOLN displays his usual good humor, according to go along in a sideshow to the circus.

THE GOVERNOR'S CIRCUS.

Hippodroming has never paid in a presidential election. General Scott tried it over thirty years ago; he distributed taffy to both natives and foreign born; but at the end his opponent, who stood quiet in his New Hampshire home, carried all but four states. Other candidates have tried it, but no one, including Mr. Greeley, ever won any laurels, or what is more to the purpose, votes in that way.

Heretofore the trips of nominees have either been short, or else some mission or excuse has been presented. General Scott set out to select the site of a home for disabled veterans. Mr. Blaine presents no excuse; he boldly and shamelessly goes forth to the rear end of a car in his own behalf up almost to the day of election. He has become a political tramp, while his opponent remains at home attending in a dignified way to the duties that come to hand.

The New York Star is authority for the statement that ex-Governor Seymour has concluded to go to Ohio and speak for Cleveland.

Bonds, Stocks and Money.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,

ATLANTA, September 27, 1884.
Slight changes only have occurred during the week, the volume of business in securities being about the same as for last week. Inquiry in first-class bonds is fair and steady, while corn and cotton have received increased interest in Central and Western stocks, as indicated in our remarks of last Sunday, and the tendency is still upward. Holders are firm and very little stock offering. Georgia and Atlanta and West Point stocks are sluggish but there is a light inquiry for Southern Georgia. Pacific first mortgage bonds have again advanced, and will probably touch 100 before the new week.

Money is still stringent, though a trifling easier condition is manifest. Cotton continues to compete freely, and a short time hence the realization of a large part of that source will be available of trade.

New York is limited supply at 10@12 percent.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as reported in the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 27.—Speculations at the stock exchange to day was lower, but there was a tendency toward higher prices. At the opening of the market the price of the Central was slightly weaker on report bond issue selling down 5 per cent. Before mid-day a firm tone set in and there was a general advance in prices. Northwest sold up 10@ per cent; St. Paul 14; Lackawanna 1; Lake Shore 1%; Missouri Pacific 13; New York Central 1; Northern Pacific preferred 5%; Pacific Mail 1%; Union Pacific 1%; Western Union 3%. Subsequently New York Central weakened, dropping to 93@. Prices paid off weak. In the final dealing there was a rally under the leadership of St. Paul which returned to 83@. Union Pacific firm issue of debenture bonds by the New York Central had very little influence on the market. The market closed at 83@. The market with last night's closing prices were 1/4 to 1/2 per cent higher, except for Central Pacific, Jersey Central and New York Central, which were 3/4 to 7/8 per cent lower. Sales 165,000 shares.

THE COTTON MARKETS.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,

ATLANTA, September 27, 1884.

New York—The cotton market opened barely steady with futures lower. In the afternoon the market broke down completely and closed easy with the range of 10@10 1/2 cents lower. Spots, middling 10@.

The superior merits of the watches having Stevens Patent improvements are now well known. They are perfect, wearing them railroad men, and others requiring great accuracy in time pieces, endorse them, and we are prepared to show by incontrovertible proof, that no other watch not having these improvements can stand comparison. It is true, it was like a revelation. It would be useless to attempt to give Mr. Duffy his name for the new watch, as he is a man of great influence. That it is unsurpassed in point of elegance, needs no confirmation beyond the mere statement of the fact. Mr. Duffy said to the reporter:

"I am glad you came. I have long had an ideal of what I wanted in a watch, and the workmen here have done it."

The walls on both sides are covered with long and certainly very beautiful land and water scenes, and the effect is most pleasing. The artistic effect of these paintings is charming, and they will attract universal attention. Nothing equal to this ever seen before.

There is no room for imagination. It is, therefore, easily foreseen that Mr. Duffy's place will be not only the center of attraction, but also the chief rendezvous for all who are interested in time keeping. They are durable, dust-proof and reliable, and considering quality, the cheapest watch in the market. Send for our illustrated catalogue and prices.

J. P. STEVENS & CO., JEWELERS, ATLANTA, GA.

The Way the People Have of Keeping Up with the Times.

One of the most notable points connected with Atlanta is the fact that nearly every keeps up with the times. This includes a quick recognition here of the ways of the world, and the adoption of their styles, fashions, and general air of everything. This is very noticeable to strangers visiting Atlanta, and is daily the subject of comment. The cities of Hartford, Worcester, Springfield and other places near the great metropolises of the north are noted for this. The people here are so far ahead in every way, and general manners and customs than Atlanta. Anything new is sure to take with the people here as soon as introduced.

There is a special importation of cut glass vases made by a well-known street firm. They were introduced here, and have been sold at all few people indeed, for having seen them or known of the late race for the title of "the finest vase." The sale of these is not unusual, but it is only in keeping with what we have enjoyed all during the summer, in the face of the world.

"I wish you would say," continued Mr. Stevens, "what we sent out on order, one day this week, in the name of the people of Atlanta, that the public prefer our Atlanta-made watches."

"That's good." There has sold one party seventy-five dozen silver spoons and forks alone.

Those who have doubted the success of the watch factory may be satisfied to know that the sales are unusually large, but a great deal in the enterprise of the city.

The Ivy Street Hospital and the Southern Medical College.

We invite special attention to the advertisement of the Southern Medical college and of the Ivy Street hospital, which is connected with it.

The Southern Medical college has now all the necessary facilities to a thorough medical education, and is entitled to the highest credit. As the Christian Index, in a recent issue, stated:

"This is the first time that we have seen a picture of Ivy Street hospital, which, in connection with the Southern medical college, is an enterprise of which Atlanta may well be proud. The hospital is now patronized by many physicians in the city, and is doing a great deal of good to the people of the city, especially to the poor."

The medical management of the institution is in the hands of Dr. J. M. Miller, president of the Christian Index, and of Dr. J. M. Miller, as the Christian Index, in a recent issue, stated:

"The time will probably never come in the history of the human race when the people will get tired of visiting a first class entertainment, such as the one given by Dr. J. M. Miller, a collection of many scenes, passes you through a series of agitations of museum and menagerie curiosities, and a grand series of scenic performances never seen before. That title, 'The New Monster Shows' may be no more appropriate than Dr. Miller's name, for the largest and most interesting collection of animals from all parts of the globe, a museum attraction of world wide celebrity, and has formed a circus corps of artists famous both here and abroad. The people will have an opportunity to see the great monster shows at Atlanta, Saturday, October 4th. The greatest attraction with them is the White Spotted Sacred Elephant, 'Theodorus.' The troupe of Bravery Turks, The Selkini, French Bicycle Riders, The Siberian Roller Skaters, Turkish Knife Throwers, Professor's Trampette, etc. Dr. Miller's troupe of Royal Egyptian Knights, a score of famous Athletes, the best male and female rider known to the profession; its three Chariot Bands of fifty uniformed musicians and in fact its thousands of attractions and scenes of the most exciting and wonderful character, will all be exhibited. Judging from the numerous press notices we have seen in the leading journals concerning this mammoth show, it will be a rich treat.

Lovely dress hats for children at Miss M. Ryan's, 45 Whitehall street. Call and see them.

There has been much improvement in house-painting of late, and M. M. Mack, who is a practical man of long experience, has done much to advance the art in the city.

A Model School.

Children whose parents are in difficulty to obtain accommodation for them in the city public schools have a rare opportunity for their children in the offer made by the trustees of the West End Model School, for the education and accommodation for children in the corporate limits of West End, and still having room for more, they are anxious to receive applications from parents in the city, or elsewhere, who may have patients requiring such special treatment. Another great advantage of this school is that it is conducted under humane and proper regulations—or the charity patients for the promotion of medical knowledge, and the benefit of the public, and is regarded by intelligent men of the profession everywhere as a highly important means to the success of the school.

This is a very important factor in the advantages of the Southern Model School, which, in connection with its private facilities, and the enterprise and ability of its principal, will be exhibited in the front rank of many of the most successful medical schools, and no doubt superior to many in the country.

The trustees of the school are the first of the first order of intelligence, composed of some of the ablest divines and gentlemen of different denominations, and the most eminent scholars in the country, and the coming surgeon in this city.

The professors occupying the several chairs in the Southern model college were chosen with the greatest care and ability in the several departments.

People Around.—Marriage and Given in Marriage.—Topics of Interest to Our Lady Readers.—Theatrical Matters, Etc.

Ball Dresses.
Ball dresses are perfect clouds of tulie this season, decorated with flowers or scrolls of silk, and even with velvet. Tulie dresses, covered with a delicate velvet, are the most beautiful.
Tulle is worn for full and also double-toilette.
For demi-toilette, the body is high to the neck and gathered in full like a chemise.

The Circus.

On Saturday the Atlanta public will welcome the circus and menagerie of John B. Doris, Mr.
Doris has an established reputation, and that is all that he promises to give an accurate accomplishment. Of his entertainment in Nashville the 2nd of September the "Daily" says:

"The street parade of the morning was surpassing and the animals and the attractions, and of itself would make the show a first-class one; but a visit to the Circus Tent, where the movements of the animals were spectacular, was a real treat."

The menagerie contains some rare specimens of animal life, and complete and interesting. The ring performances were excellent.

The audience was disappointed to none,
and the exhibition of the double-toilette was superb, and the jugglers' tricks as fine as ever seen in this city. The girls in the ring were dressed in a style of elegance that is beyond compare.

In deed, to sum up the matter, up, Mr. Doris has given pleasure to thousands, and will be more professedly patronized if he returns to Nashville again."

Butter's Open House.

Considering the heat and dust and the fact that the "Woolly Bedfellow" was not new to us people, Bob's open house last week was a success to the management.

Mrs. Lizzie May Ulmer will occupy the open house, 29, Monday and Tuesday nights, matinee Tuesday, producing the domestic comedy drama, entitled, "Dad's Child," a play full of strong situations, and great wit and dialogue. The Hartford Globe says: "Miss Ulmer and her play have

"... On Friday evening, Mrs. Ulmer appeared in her open house in the new drama, 'Dad's Child.'
Lizzie May Ulmer is a good company, and is a thoroughly good actress."

The United States and Windsor, at Saratoga, are still open with a fair number of guests.

All last week the Clinton Hotel, Niagara Falls, Montreal, and the Royal York, Toronto, were Montreal's spring about closing up for the season, a good business, though not a remarkable one.

Mr. Maynard, of this city, who has been spend-some days at Indian Springs, has returned home improved.

Mr. Huff, has taken charge of the Arlington in Columbus, and a number of guests from New England are there.

NOTES.

Bacon Hash is a Western dish. It is chopped bacon and potatoes, fried together, and then baked in the oven. They can have it.

One of the features of the American exhibition in London, in 1884, will be an exhibition of the so-called "American" dishes, eat and wear.

It is considered that the fashionable eaters every hotel to give chicken salad at dinner ladies. The dish, they say, is for lunch and supper.

Wedding cakes are no longer made of white lady cake in the best circles, but of black fruit cake, and these are put up in little white boxes and tucked away.

There is a society lady in Atlanta who can get up a dinner of more taste and skill than that for Countess and Peveril of the Peak, by Count Vert, and she is a member of the Ladies' Aid Society, and the author of Waverley.

Eating fast and carelessly, is imprudent. It is generally believed that fast and careless eating causes disease, and that the best way to prevent it is to eat slowly and carefully.

Stage Silhouettes.

Minnie Madden is Mrs. Legrand in private life.

Alfred Carrington now heads a concert party of six.

There are now three "Called Back" companies on the road.

Charles Ford has a well-balanced opera company.

Mrs. Craibtree has the entire management of Lothair's room.

Nannie Mitchell positively refuses to play on Sunday night, and she is right.

Richardson in Atlanta, who, though denied her age, she will be forty-three this month.

Allen Oates' "caught-on" at Washington last week and regained some of her old-time popularity.

Most of the famous operas of the country were given at the Savoy, to 1,000 persons, for two years.

For "Sister Vernon" has given seven chimes, she plays from a boy in triple to an old bag in rags, and makes a hit in every part.

Emma Abbott's Louisville and Cincinnati season was a success, and she succeeded in getting double to 1,000 persons, for two years.

Charles Trammell, of Griffin, is visiting Miss Matilda Longly.

Mr. G. N. Speer, of LaGrange, has returned from a visit to Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bradley, of Carrollton, visited Atlanta, and are now back.

Mr. M. M. McElroy, of Laramie, is visiting Miss O'Keefe, 12 South Pryor street.

Mr. S. P. Averill, of Selma, Alabama, after several weeks' visit to relatives in Atlanta, has returned home.

Mr. Joseph E. Webster, after spending the summer in Atlanta and Gainesville, has returned to his home in Macon.

Personal and Otherwise.

Mr. R. T. Brown, of Atlanta, will move his family to Gainesville.

The Peacock feathers fair offers a $20 premium and the Advertiser of that day says: "Rev. Dr. J.
Hawthorne preached to a large audience at the Methodist Church, Atlanta, on Sunday evening, and the service was well attended."

The Indianapolis baby show to be held shortly in Atlanta has already 1,000 books of names of all nationalities.

The many friends of Miss Harris, Fonda, will be glad to learn of her recovery.

No woman chooses her own face or figure, but does choose her own dress, and it should be selected according to that face and figure.

Miss Carter wished to have her hair done, and when Miss Carter wished to have her hair done, she had it done.

This is the case in modern days but extremely the manners and modes of those who long ago were forgotten. Even

"The bright gem in man's dominion is tobacco that grows in the old dominion;

Take the old, the dull, insipid, or sensible,
Profound, or the street clothes, the best.

The character of a man's dress is not determined by the quality of the material but by the style of the cut, the fit, the shape, and the manner of wearing it.

Mr. Haworth, the hairdresser, waves the minutes off his hands in discussing them, causing them to be the most practical life.

As the future will deal with her with the "Woolly Bedfellow," his discourses were evidently prepared for the purpose of creating a scene of continual trouble and suspense.

While earnestness was a prevailing feature in the character of the princely cedar, his discourses were evidently prepared for the
